It is regretted that due to lack of time this list is in no order at all. It does, however, follow the pattern of the books on the shelves.

BOTANICAL NOTE

In May 1967 I found a specimen of Honewort (Trinia glauca) on Lundy. The books record this as being found only in the Avon Gorge, within a mile of where I live, the Mendips and in South Devon. The list in Ilfracombe Flora and Fauna does not include it.

In view of its rarity I did not pick a specimen for identification, but on the day after my return I did a counter-check with undoubted Honewort in the Avon gorge.
